Smithsonian Open Access 2.8 million images
June 9th, 2020

“Listed under a Creative Commons Zero (CC0) license, the 2.8 million images in the new database are now liberated from all restrictions, copyright or otherwise, enabling anyone with an Internet connection to build on them as raw materials—and ultimately participate in their evolution.”

Thank you Smithsonian! To read all about it click this link:
https://tinyurl.com/v96ku59

Or visit the website
https://www.si.edu/openaccess

Search with the terms Civil Rights yields 572 results:

A search for Robert F. Kennedy got me some sketches of him and lots of botany pictures...
Go to Filter and then click on topic.

Check all that applies to your subject matter.

Click on Update Search and it should weed out all the botany references 😊

Have fun mocking, mashing, and creating with all these images released into the public domain.