New York State Data Resources

Do you have a question about the state’s education system? Perhaps you are interested in the salaries of state employees? Or maybe this season’s trout stocking? You can find the answers to these and much more on the New York State’s Data site.

You can pick a category and begin your search on all things New York, from budgets to historic sites and parks, to travel records, or even finding a local car repair shop.

Some helpful resources include the Summer-Fall Farmer’s Market map which shows all of the established farmer’s markets throughout the state. Click on any one to find its exact location and hours of operation.
